

Unsolicited Phone Calls

Posted by Dr. Gary H. Cote on April 6, 2006

What can we learn from phone calls that keep coming but we know we don't want or need? Unsolicited phone calls assault your home life! There are Credit Cards companies with a multitude of enticing arrangements; there are deals for vacations, for prescriptions, for cars, for magazines, all trying to get you to listen.

First the phone rings, you pick up the phone and often times there is a slight delay as the link is made between you and the sales marketer. The auto dialer was just calling a multitude of numbers waiting for someone to pick up, and then the connection is made, Listen or not Listen? Deal or no Deal?

As you think on the daily reality of this event, relate it to the roving power and presence of "Sin!" There is a constant and continuous stream of sin that flows about looking for a connection. Once the connection is made, the next step is to get you to listen; but remember its ultimate goal, the main objective, it is calling for a decision—Deal or no Deal?

Choose no deal when it comes to sin! Though sin knows your habits and main weaknesses, though sin feels strong and impossible to beat, find your strength in Christ who conquered the power of sin for us. He is our answer! Make the connection with Christ and deal with Him only!

He is Life, Light, and Love who conquered all the powers of the enemy!

May the Grace of God enable you to live out His purpose for your life!
